Recent Operations

By Paul Rardin

Last fall the Pahokee Lions club subscribed to The Everglades News for each Lion in service. I put the names on the list. Months passed before I heard a word from any of the boys. But, at last, letters are coming in saying they are getting the paper.

I'd like for the Lions in service from Pahokee to know that their club hasn't forgotten them. The subscriptions to The Everglades News prove that.

Here in the Everglades News office we take particular care to see that each paper going overseas gets out of this office on time. We also take care to see that it is properly and securely wrapped to stand the long journey. Some of them go to England, others to New Caledonia and some to West Africa. From letters I've received lately I'm of the opinion that the paper finds its way also to Australia.

Personal to Boys Overseas: I'm moving all those letters you're writing. They'll be splendid material for a Rotary club program some of these days when the war clouds have rolled away. Especially after you have come back to the Glades and I can find out from what city, country and continent they were mailed. I'd like to have letters from every boy in service to put in my files.

I haven't mentioned the Pahokee Canal Point Service Men's Honor Roll in this column for several weeks. It is a beautiful spot in Pahokee. The better blue grass is really doing its stuff now. The shrubbery is beginning to spread its foliage. More flowers were planted recently, and the grounds are looking really lovely by those who pass that way.

And, here's a note to parents of boys in service who are on our subscription list. Please keep this office posted in any change of address of your boy. We want him to receive his paper regularly. However, I have no way of knowing when his address is changed unless you notify me.

Recently the phone rang and a lady wanted to know why her son wasn't getting his paper in camp. I repeated the address on the list which was given me several months before. "But, that's not his address now," she said. "I was I to know?" She gave me his most recent address and the mailing list was corrected accordingly.

I will be in Pahokee Saturday morning with subscription records and a pocket full of blank checks. Just stop me on the street and make out the check. I'll correct the records and see that you continue to get your paper.

Council Prepares For Election To Be Held Tues., May 4

Seats Held By Wiley Tillis
And Ben Waring
To Be Filled

The Pahokee City Council at a meeting Friday night instructed Mayor O. E. McClure to issue a proclamation calling for a city election on May 4 at which time councilmen whose terms expire two-year terms. B. S. Waring and Wiley Tillis are the two councilmen whose terms expire in May. Candidates have until April 24 to qualify for this election.

Fire Chief Marvin Lewis reported that the volunteer fire department had raised sufficient funds to pay for a down payment on a new fire truck. The city had promised to complete payments on such a truck if persons living outside the city limits who will benefit through its purchase would assume the down payment, through public subscription. Chief Lewis and the volunteer firemen were placed on a committee to investigate prices on a new fire truck and report at the next meeting. The council voted to send a representative to the Atlantic and Gulf Canals Association in Clewiston on March 31 where a hearing was held on the deepening and widening of the Fort Myers-Stuart Inter-Coastal Waterway. It also voted to accept a contract from the Florida League of Municipalities for special work in the interest of the city at the coming session of the State Legislature.

At night I've seen coons, possums and other animals and I've reported seeing foxes, deer and other denizens of the wood. I, for one, am happy to see the fishing and hunting go on to what it used to be and if gas line rationing doesn't embarrass it, it will be a little easier to bear—Car Stettin in Moore Haven Democrat.
